

National Course on:

Asset Protection – doing it legally

You can use trusts and even offshore structures to stave off attacks and still comply with ATO rules.

Asset protection adopts advanced estate planning and business succession planning techniques. It puts your assets beyond the reach of predatory creditors, business partners, spouses and in-laws.

We look at the special needs of professionals such as doctors and sole proprietors with plant and equipment and intellectual property.

Your employees, spouse and business partners can bring you down. We show you how to stop this.

How do I:

1. remain legal and transparent for the Australian Taxation Office?
2. stop my mistress from challenging my estate?
3. protect my assets from my daughter-in-law?
4. help my daughter buy a house with her husband but get it all back if their marriage doesn't work?
5. escape litigation charges and going to court? Avoiding the predator plaintiffs.
6. build a wall between risky/worthless business assets (e.g. employees, advice, risk) and passive/valuable business assets (e.g. business name, goodwill, client base, property, cash flow, cash)?

“This course is designed for Accountants, Financial Planners and Lawyers who are already skilled in Estate Planning, Tax or Business Succession Planning. This opens up a new area of practice and profit source.” - Brett Davies

Legally help your clients to:

- stop worrying about losing their house, spouse and business to greedy creditors and business partners
- ensure that aggressive lawyers and government regulators see it as a waste of time to even attack your client
- become untouchable with layers of protection

This is a tremendous opportunity for Accountants, Advisers and Lawyers who are skilled in Estate Planning, Tax or Business Succession Planning to develop an Asset Protection practice. This opens up a new area of practice and profit source.
